Michael Stanton’s pension estimate

This statement was created on September 24, 2025 at 1:05 PM
All pension estimates are provided in gross, monthly amounts.

Summary of your pension estimate

It’s never too early to start planning for your future, and running a pension estimate is a key part of understanding how your pension can support your future retirement goals. In this estimate, you’ll find a description of the options available to you, your estimated pension amounts, and key terms and important information to help you make informed decisions. We encourage you to review your estimate carefully and contact us if you have any questions.

Please note, this pension estimate does not constitute financial, tax, or legal advice. We encourage you to seek independent financial advice to ensure the decisions you make are appropriate for your personal situation.

You have accrued pension benefits both before and after your employer joined UPP. While these pensions are shown separately in this pension estimate, you will receive one monthly pension payment that reflects the elections you make for both your UPP and your pre-conversion pension.

Your pension options vary based on your spousal information. According to our records, Keith Vo is your eligible spouse. If this is incorrect, please update your marital status and spousal information in your Profile on the myUPP Member Portal or contact our Member Services team for assistance.

An eligible spouse is a person who at the time of starting your pension is:

a) married to you, and is not living separate and apart from you; or
b) not married to you, but is living together in a conjugal relationship with you continuously for a period of at least 3 years; or
c) not married to you but living with you in a conjugal relationship of some permanence, and together you are the parents of a child as set out under the Children’s Law Reform Act.

Disclaimer

The amounts calculated by the Pension Estimate Calculator are estimates only, and use projections, assumptions, and current data, as applicable, as well as the parameters you requested. Key elements of the estimate are found in the Calculation details section. This estimate may not reflect any events in progress, such as a pending transfer-in of service, or a marriage breakdown.

Your actual pension entitlements will be determined based on the election you make in your Pension Options Package and final data, including the verified data provided by your employer.

Your pension will be paid in accordance with UPP’s Plan Text in effect at the time you begin receiving your pension, including any Canada Income Tax Act (ITA) limits that may apply. If there are any differences between the information in this estimate and UPP’s Plan Text, the Plan Text will prevail.

About your options

As a UPP member, your pension is paid for life and includes both your UPP pension and your pre-conversion pension (benefits earned before your employer joined UPP). All pension options outlined in this estimate are presented as gross, monthly amounts, and are subject to applicable withholding tax.

If your eligible spouse outlives you, they will receive a lifetime survivor pension based on the percentage you elect. The normal form of your UPP pension provides a monthly lifetime pension of $39.13 with a 50% survivor pension paid to your spouse upon your passing. The normal form of your pre-conversion pension is a monthly lifetime pension of with a 60% survivor pension paid to your spouse upon your passing.

At the normal form, your total monthly lifetime pension is $39.13. All other pension options are actuarially adjusted, meaning your pension amount is reduced to provide higher survivor benefit options.

If you elect a 50% spousal option (the normal form of your UPP pension), you and your spouse must submit a spousal waiver form to reduce the spousal pension from the legislated 60% to the 50% normal form. The waiver must be submitted before your pension begins.

The spousal options with a guarantee mean that if you pass away before receiving the guaranteed number of payments, your spouse will continue receiving the same pension you were collecting for the remainder of that period. Afterward, the survivor pension will be paid at the percentage you elected for the rest of your spouse’s life.

If you predecease your spouse, and you both pass away before the guarantee period ends, any remaining guaranteed payments of your UPP pension will be paid to your spouse’s designated beneficiaries or estate. Any remaining guaranteed payments of your pre-conversion pension will be paid to your designated beneficiaries or estate.

Note: Waiving the entitlement to a spousal survivor pension is financially detrimental in most cases. However, you and your spouse may decide to waive the spousal survivor pension for other reasons. For example, depending on factors like age or health, a member may prefer any remaining guaranteed payments to go to their estate or other designated beneficiaries.

To determine the option for you, it may be beneficial to consult a trusted financial advisor who understands your retirement goals and personal finances.

Pension reduction

Early retirement reduction to UPP pension	50.00%
Early retirement reduction to pre-conversion pension	49.19%

The early retirement reduction accounts for starting your pension before your normal retirement date, increasing the likelihood that you will receive more payments over time.

The above pension amount reflects the annual pension reduction applied due to the equalization payment made to your former spouse, Keith Vo.

Key terms and important information

Applying for your pension

You can start your pension as early as age 55, subject to a permanent reduction to reflect the fact that you will receive it for a longer period, or as late as December 1st of the year you turn 71. Keep in mind there may be no added benefit of delaying your pension past age 65, or your earliest unreduced retirement date, if earlier (indicated on your annual statement), as you can begin collecting it without any reduction at that time and payments will not be retroactive once your pension begins.

To begin your pension, you must submit a request. We recommend notifying your employer at least 90 days before your intended pension start date. This ensures you have enough time to review your options and make an informed decision.

- If you are an active member, please submit your pension application to your employer.
- If you are a deferred member, please submit your request to begin your pension via secure message through the myUPP Member Portal, or contact our Member Services team by phone.

In general, your pension starts on the first day of the month following your retirement date. To avoid a gap in your income, it may be beneficial to choose a retirement date near the end of the month.

Please note, if you submit your request to start your pension with less than 90 days' notice, there may be a delay in your first pension payment.

Beneficiaries

You can name a person, multiple individuals, an organization (such as a charity), or your estate as your beneficiary. If you have an eligible spouse, they have priority for any survivor payments. However, it's still a good idea to name additional beneficiaries, such as your children, as beneficiaries may be entitled to a payment from the Plan in certain circumstances. If you name multiple beneficiaries, the total allocation must equal 100%.

Please note if you create a will after designating beneficiaries with UPP, your will may take precedence if it references your pension specifically or generally. You may update your non-spousal beneficiaries with UPP directly through the myUPP Member Portal.

Conversion

Effective January 1, 2026, the Wilfrid Laurier University Pension Plan, also known as the "prior plan" converted to UPP. As a result, your pension is based on:

- service earned under your prior plan up to and including December 31, 2025 (your pre-conversion pension), if any, plus
- service earned under UPP, if any, on or after January 1, 2026 (your UPP pension).

CPP and OAS

In addition to the pension you receive from UPP, your overall retirement income may include other sources, such as the Canada Pension Plan (CPP) and Old Age Security (OAS). UPP does not provide CPP or OAS estimates, but you can find additional information by visiting canada.ca > benefits > public pensions. CPP and OAS do not impact the pension amount you receive from UPP.

Dependent children

If you have a dependent child, they may be eligible to receive survivor benefits for your UPP pension. Eligibility depends on the child's age and the nature of their dependence, both when you apply for your pension, and at the time you pass away. These dependent child survivor benefits are only available if you pass away after beginning your pension. However, you can still designate your children as beneficiaries for pre-retirement survivor benefits.

If you have an eligible dependent child when you apply for your pension, please inform our Member Services team to ensure the appropriate survivor pension option is included in your Pension Options Package. If you would like to learn more about dependent child eligibility for post-retirement survivor benefits, please contact our Member Services team.

Event in progress

Any events in progress are not included in this estimate. Such events may include a family law valuation, transferring service into the Plan, or purchasing service from a leave.

Financial advice
Selecting the pension option that best meet your needs, and those of your loved ones, is an important decision. To support you in making an informed election, we encourage you to seek independent advice from an expert such as an independent financial advisor who understands your overall financial circumstances.

Inflation protection (indexation)
Pension estimates do not project inflation protection. Inflation protection is a valuable benefit designed to increase the amount of your monthly pension in pay through a cost-of-living adjustment, also sometimes referred to as indexation.

This means once you begin receiving your pension, your monthly payment may also increase on an annual basis to keep up with increases in the cost of living. Once an increase has been made, it is permanently applied to your pension. The granting of an increase in any year does not mean that an adjustment will be granted in subsequent years.

As part of the conversion to UPP, UPP honours the indexation provisions of your prior plan, including how the adjustments are determined and when they are paid. These provisions apply to the portion of your pension earned prior to conversion, and UPP's provisions apply to the portion of your pension earned after conversion, if any.

Normal form
The baseline form of payment of your pension. Your pension amount will be calculated in this form using the Plan's pension formula. All other optional forms of payment will be actuarially equivalent to the normal form.

Your normal form depends on whether you have an eligible spouse on the date you commence your pension. If you have a spouse, your normal form of pension includes a spousal survivor pension should they outlive you. This option takes priority over any other beneficiaries unless your spouse chooses to waive their entitlement. If your spouse does not waive their entitlement, your pension will be reduced to reflect that your pension will likely be paid over a longer period to cover the lifetime of both you and your spouse.

The normal form of your UPP pension is the 50% spousal option: a pension payable for your lifetime, with 50% of the pension continuing to your spouse if they outlive you. However, pension legislation entitles a spouse to a minimum option of 60%. If your spouse does not need their full entitlement, they can sign a waiver to proceed with the 50% option. The waiver must be submitted before your pension begins. If your eligible spouse is more than 10 years younger than you, your pension will be reduced to reflect the likelihood that your spouse will receive more payments over a longer period.

The normal form of your pre-conversion pension is the 60% spousal option: a pension payable for your lifetime, with 60% of the pension continuing to your spouse if they outlive you.

Pre-conversion pension
Your pre-conversion pension benefit is based on the greater value of your money purchase pension (MPP) and your minimum guarantee pension (MGP). Your MPP is determined based on the balance of your money purchase account, standardized mortality tables, and the conversion interest rate. These factors are estimates only, and subject to change when you retire. If your MPP is greater than your MGP, you will receive the higher amount.

The MGP provides you with an annual retirement benefit based on a formula. The MGP is paid to you to the extent it exceeds the value of your MPP. After you retire, your MGP and your MPP will be compared again each year and you will receive the greater of the two. Your estimated pre-conversion pension reflects the MPP and MGP at your projected retirement date, not in subsequent years.

Taxes
UPP is required to deduct any applicable tax from your pension in accordance with the ITA. Your pension will be taxed based on your pension amount alone and excludes any other sources of income.
